

If you could have any one superpower, what would it be?

What would you be able to do?

How could this power be used to better the world?

What would your superhero name be?

Example:

If I could have any one superpower, I would have the power of telepathy. Telepathy would give me the power to read the thoughts of others and to mentally communicate with others.

I would be able to know the truth about what people are thinking. Even though it would sometimes be difficult to know the truth, I would be better able to make choices that would have a positive result. When trying to accomplish something important, too much time is often wasted trying to interpret what people mean when they say something. I would be able to avoid people that are counter-productive or have ulterior motives. Being able to communicate mentally would enable me to collaborate with others silently while in a public situation. Too often, it is necessary to wait until after having a private discussion before I can say what I want to a group. In a crisis situation this could help me to mediate conflicts before they arise.

This power could be used to better the world by helping to solve crises or resolve conflicts. I would listen to what people think would help them, then try to help them fulfill their needs. I would also be able to help people avoid points of conflict by knowing what they do not like or what might set them off. Often people have too much pride to admit that they need something. With the power of telepathy I would be able to assist people in challenging situations without violating their privacy...well at least they would believe that their privacy is not being violated. Unfortunately, because I will need to violate people's private thoughts, I will need to use my power of telepathy sparingly – only in times of crisis.

My superhero name will be Teleptor.
